Kandy Ray Announces Retirement from Provencher & Company, LLC

Hammond, LA – March 22, 2017– Provencher & Company, LLC announced today that Kandy Ray, AVP, Business Interruption, has taken the first step into formal retirement from the firm’s Forensic Accounting and CPA Expert Services Unit. Kandy has served clients of the firm for many years as an integral part of our growth and success, delivering top-notch professional services and maintaining an excellent performance record and reputation over that time.

“We have mixed feelings concerning this announcement. Kandy has served our clients and our organization so very well. She brought a variety of skills and dedication to her position. Kandy has shown her ability to successfully fulfill multiple responsibilities in a number of professional settings, and I can confidently state that she was part and parcel of our success over the past decade. We were delighted to work with her on a daily basis, and her absence will be sincerely felt”, said Jerry Provencher, CEO and Executive General Adjuster.

Dave Kurland, President, added “Kandy Ray was a consummate professional, thorough in her approach, and in possession of a strong business and personal background. We have been very fortunate to have relied upon her expertise and commitment for many years. We extend a gracious thank you to Kandy for the time and service she has given to clients in her capacity as AVP, as she moves into the next chapter of her life. Kandy will continue to serve as a consultant while we complete the final transition of her responsibilities to existing staff”.
