Business Overview

Your business has incurred a cyber-attack. The clock is ticking on how much risk the business will incur.

- Is it an isolated incident to one computer or is it widespread across the entire global network and can impact hundreds of your employees, customers and their secure data?
- What is the extent of the financial impact?
- Will it be thousands or millions in lost data, time and productivity?
- What will this do to my brand recognition?
- Is the attack even contained yet?
